NINE INJURED IN BOMB BLAST AT YOUNGSTOWN

Two Buildings and 15 Autos Wrecked; Fire Does $250,000 Damage

"PLANTED" IN GROCERY

Proprietor Tells Police He Was Threatened by "Blackhand" Letter

Youngstown, Sept. 22—A bomb, detonated at 4 o'clock this morning in the plant of the Youngstown Grocery Co. here, injured nine persons, wrecked two buildings and 15 automobiles and caused a fire which did $250,000 damage.

Acting Chief of Police Leroy Goodwin announced that the explosive had been planted in the basement of the building by members of the blackhand.

The seriously injured are: Frank Rogers, suffering from hemorrhage and Fred Braun, internal injuries. They are at the Youngstown Hospital.

The less seriously injured are: Walter Ruber, Max Daver, 5; Arion Dolen, John Gabor, Arthur Horwatt, John Cigaco and Frank Quinlan.

The three-story building of the grocery firm was wrecked and a two-story rooming house adjoining it virtually razed. Window panes in buildings a mile away were broken by the blast.

V. Silvestri, proprietor of the grocery organization, told Acting Chief Goodwin that he had received a threatening letter from the blackhand about two months ago but had ignored it.

All the fire equipment in the city was called upon to fight the blaze by the explosion.

Most of those injured were cut by flying debris.

Blames "Cut Prices"

Silvestri told police that he received the blackhand letter, postmarked Sharon, Pa., several weeks ago. It threatened him and his plant unless he "ceased cutting prices." He attributed the letter to a disgruntled competitor.

Streets in an area of more than a half mile surrounding the plant are littered with shattered plate glass windows and other matter cast about by the blast.

The explosion of several casks of ammonia, following the bomb blast, was believed to have started the many fires which taxed the facilities of firemen for several hours.

GOVERNMENT SAYS BONDS TRACED TO DEFENDANTS

Announcement Made by Attorney During Daugherty-Miller Trial

New York, Sept. 22—Announcement was made by the government today at the Daugherty-Miller conspiracy trial that the $391,000 in Liberty bonds, the so-called "divvy" which Richard Merton, German financier, alleged he paid to have the $7,000,000 assets of the American Metals Co. returned to their foreign owners, will be traced within the next few days to the possession of the defendants.

The defendants, Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, are accused of not having given the government their best and unbiased services in connection with the return of this property which had been seized during the war and which was given back in 1921 after Merton had made a trip to this country.

Merton had testified he met the late John T. King, Connecticut politician, who introduced him to Jesse Smith, close friend of Daugherty, and that later he was placed in touch with Miller. He testified he gave King a "retainer of $50,000 and also the $391,000 in Liberty bonds."

The government's announcement was made by Kenneth Simpson, assistant district attorney, while Samuel Rosebland, employed by Goldman, Sachs & Co., brokers of New York, was on the stand testifying regarding the bonds.

REARRANGING OF CITY HALL TO BE TAKEN UP

Proposed Shifting of Offices To Be Presented to Building Committee

Proposed plans for rearrangement of the city offices in the Eagles building on W. Center-st, will be submitted to the building committee of the City Council at a meeting to be held in the council chamber this evening. Tentative plans have been drawn up by J. E. Sexton, of 211 E. George-st, who was assigned to handle the work in action taken by council several months ago and who will be present at tonight's conference. Members of the committee are A. H. Williams, J. E. Wilkins and John Owens.

The city will occupy its present quarters on the first floor of the Eagles building and in addition will take over a part of the second floor after January 1, when the new municipal court begins operating. Whether the court-room is to be located on the first floor or the second is one of the most important questions to be decided by the building committee. According to plans first outlined, the court would be on the second floor, but there are some officials who are said to be opposed to this arrangement. Their contention is that because of the large volume of business to be handled by the court and for the con-

RECOMMENDS REJECTION OF PART OF RESERVATION

World Court Committee Says It Might Restrict Activities of League

Geneva, Sept. 22—The last part of the fifth reservation proposed by the United States as a condition of its entry into the World Court was recommended for rejection by the juridicial committee of the world court conference here today.

The reservation, which is objected to, provides that the World Court shall not take up matters affecting United States interests without the consent of the United States.

The juridicial committee maintains that this reservation might restrict the activities of the League of Nations and should be made the subject of a more complete understanding with the United States.

The committee reported in favor of the acceptance of the first four reservations and the first part of the fifth.

Fletcher of Toledo, the state vice president, John A. Abel of this city, and the state secretary, M. L. Brown of Springfield.

All of these officers will be on the program of speeches which will follow a banquet to be served at noon.

Ten of these district meetings are held in different parts of the state each year, the purpose being to discuss matters of importance to the order.

Plan Initiation

The class of candidates to be initiated during the afternoon is expected to total at least 175, as 100 applications are already on file as the result of the membership campaign which was launched recently under the direction of George A. Strine of York, Pa., national organizer of the Eagles. Mr. Strine will close his stay here following the meeting October 10 and will go to Kent, Ohio, to start a similar campaign. The local lodge will continue the campaign and strive to increase the total membership to 2,000. The present enrollment is 1,193.

The class to be initiated October 10 will be named in honor of M. O. Burns of Hamilton, Ohio, who was elected grand lodge president at the Eagles' convention at Seattle on August 10.

MARION SCHOOL SAVINGS TOTAL NEARLY $11,000

Students Bank $860.13 This Week, Slightly Less Than Last Report

A decrease from the first day of banking was noted in the results of the second banking day in Marion grade schools yesterday.

At Harding High School today, however, an increase was found in the deposits from last Wednesday. At that time a sum of $113.84 was banked by the students and today deposits amounting to $133.96 were made.

In the grades, $726.17 was deposited yesterday and a sum of $811.13 was banked in the same schools last week.

The results of this week's banking brings the grand total for the schools since the start of the project last April to $10,937.79. The $10,000 mark was reached last week with the finals of the High school.

SUBPENAES TO BE SERVED ON 12 WITNESSES

Engineer Expected to Testify in Aimee M'Pherson Case Today

Los Angeles, Sept 22—Subpenaes will be served on 12 witnesses, residents of Carmel, Salinas and San Luis Obispo, today or tomorrow in connection with the conspiracy charges lodged against Aimee Semple McPherson, woman evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy. All of them will appear next Monday when Mrs. McPherson and her mother face a preliminary hearing on charges which were the outgrowth of the sensational "kidnaping" of Mrs. McPherson last spring.

Ralph Hershey, an engineer, who was at Carmel last May, was scheduled to appear before District Attorney Asa Keyes today. It is said that he will offer new evidence which will link the names of Mrs. McPherson and Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator at Angelus Temple, also sought on conspiracy charges.

Former Juror Called

It was learned today that Mrs. Edith Holmes, member of the former 1925 grand jury, was called to the district attorney's office yesterday for questioning. It was thought that she was quizzed concerning the disappearance of evidence from the grand jury room. The evidence was pencil memoranda of groceries purchased at the Carmel cottage. The handwriting on these slips would have been valuable in determining the identity of the "begoggled" woman, who was said to have been the companion of Ormiston.

Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman-Seiladf, who charged that Mrs. McPherson offered her a sum of money to produce a "Miss X" as the companion of Ormiston at Carmel, will also appear for hearing Monday.

Ormiston, John Doe Martin and another woman, who has not been identified, are still being sought.

WILLIS ASKS COOLIDGE FOR HELP IN CAMPAIGN

Ohio Senator Declares He Is Certain of Re-election on Administration's Success

Washington, Sept. 22 — President Coolidge, it seems, at last has capitulated to the plea of a Republican candidate in this fall's elections for a little White House support.

Rather indirect, but much farther than he has consented to go thus far.

The candidate is Frank B. Willis, of Ohio, who seeks a return to the senate next November. The senator from the Buckeye state is facing a stiff fight with Atlee Pomerene. Mr. Coolidge returned to his desk from his summer vacation on Monday. Senator Willis was one of the first of the official callers. He left the executive offices to make a statement predicting his re-election on three points, all revolving around the achievements of the Coolidge administration.

Tuesday he was back to introduce one of his most powerful constituents, P. W. Litchfield of Akron, president of the Goodyear Rubber Co.

GAS RATE PLEA OF CITIES TO BE HEARD SEPT. 28

Proposed Continuance Will Not Prevent Gas Company from Presenting Case

Attorneys for the Logan Gas Co. have been formally notified that the application for additional data filed by City Solicitor Grant E. Mouser Jr. in behalf of Marion and other Ohio cities which are protesting against gas rate increases will be up for hearing before the State Utilities Commission on Sept. 28. A copy of the letter sent to the company's legal representatives by the Utilities Commission was received Tuesday by Mr. Mouser.

The cities, through Mr. Mouser acting as their official counsel, recently requested the commission to order the gas company to submit detailed information on 44 different phases of its business relating to receipts, expenditures and profits or to grant a permit for W. H. Weiss of Cincinnati, engineer employed by the municipalities to handle the technical part of their investigation, to obtain the data from an examination of the company's books. A motion to continue hearing of the case until Nov. 1 or a later date, if necessary, was filed with the application.

The proposed continuance will not prevent the gas company from completing the presentation of its case on Sept. 28, the letter from the commission informs the company's attorneys. There is possibility that all arguments and testimony in support of the rate sched-

FOUR WEST POINTERS SUSPENDED FOR HAZING

Forced Seven Plebes to Run Up and Down Barracks Stairs, Say Officials

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 22—Four West Point cadets, charged with hazing, today were under a year's suspension.

They were the first victims of disciplinary measures against hazing at the military academy in more than 10 years.

The cadets, all fourth year men, are privileged to return next fall.

Resignation of James Leroy Nash of St. Louis, a nephew of Senator Nash, led to the investigation. In all, seven plebes were hazed, West Point authorities said. John B. Allen, St. Charles, Mo., David Peter Laubach, Easton, Pa., William E. Potter, Toledo, Ohio, and Thomas J. Cody, of West Point.

The four suspended men forced seven plebes to run up and down three flights of barracks stairs several times according to the authorities.

Griswold will represent Secretary of State Thad Brown when the alternative restraining writ granted by the Supreme Court against Brown upon the petition of Senator John F. Burke, Elyria, and the Primary Defense League, is called on Sept. 30, it was announced here today.

The Defense League, of which Senator Burke is chairman, asked the court for the writ to restrain the secretary of state from putting on the ballots for the November election the proposed amendment to the state constitution, which, if adopted, would abolish the state's primary system.

Griswold conferred this morning with Joseph Baird, assistant to Brown, preparatory to drafting the secretary's answer to the court.

Dread Specter of Disease Rearing Head In Florida

Typhoid Fever Is Reported in Miami, Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood; Anti-Toxin from Government Stores Being Rushed into Danger Zones

RELIEF DONATIONS EXPECTED TO REACH $1,000,000

Death Toll Will Approximate 450, Survey of Devastated Regions Show; Injured Number 3,500 and Homeless Probably 35,000

RELIEF—rehabilitation—reconstruction. These words overshadowed all else today in the wake of the great West Indian hurricane which, like some merciless scythe, mowed a 60-mile pathway of death and destruction from Florida Keys to the mouth of the Mississippi.

The great wind has blown itself out, leaving only wreckage, ruin and death behind to mark its course.

Today for the first time, it was possible to get a comprehensive view of the extent of the disaster.

Southern Florida, hardest hit, is resolutely going about the task of burying its dead, checking the missing and building anew. The damage in lives and property is colossal.

The gulf coast, embracing Pensacola, Mobile, Biloxi, and other noted resorts, has been extensively damaged, but there has been comparatively little loss of life.

Communication was slowly being re-established today with these communities, and for the first time since the fury of the storm hit the outside world learned that they had emerged without catastrophe.

Reports gathered by International News Service throughout the stricken state of Florida indicated that the death toll ultimately will approximate 450. This figure may be increased or diminished as the mountain of debris and raging waters give up their secrets, but it is believed the final count will be near that figure. The injured probably total 3,500 and the homeless probably 35,000.

20 Gulf Coast Deaths

On the gulf coast, there were probably 20 deaths, according to all reports. Three of these were reported from Pensacola, in the first dispatch to be sent out of that storm-gripped port.

There were others reported from isolated communities in Alabama and Mississippi.

The property damage, even yet, can only be estimated, but it seemed certain this morning that the original estimates are but little if any too high, all things considered. The state of Florida probably has suffered $150,000,000; the gulf coast less than a third of that.

The chief problem of relief today centered in getting the destitute on their feet again and in restoring sanitary services.

Fear Epidemics

Already the dread specter of plague has reared its head—typhoid being reported in Holywood and Fort Lauderdale, two of the communities hardest hit. Anti-toxin from government stores at Key West and Washington is being rushed to the danger zones, and officials are confident that it can be checked. The prime necessity, however, is quick restoration of water and sewage systems.

Meanwhile, the American people continued to pour thousands of dollars in to the maternal lap of the American Red Cross to prosecute the work of rehabilitation and relief.

National headquarters at Washington expected to see the donations pass the $1,000,000 mark during the day.

MR. AND MRS. DEPEW HEAD ARE SUED FOR $17,552.04

Marion County Bank Brings Action To Collect on Promissory Notes

Asking judgment for $17,552.04, with interest, against Depew Head, and his wife, Florence Head, former residents of Grand Prairie Township, the Marion County Bank Co. today filed action in Common Pleas Court to recover that sum.

Mr. and Mrs. Head, who now live in Columbus, are charged with issuing promissory notes to the Kentucky Joint Stock Land Bank at Lexington, the notes being dated Oct. 16, 1922. In order to secure the notes, Mr. and Mrs. Head are alleged to have mortgaged their property of 435 acres in Grand Prairie Township.

Notes and mortgage have been assigned from the Lexington bank to the Marion County Banking Co., according to the petition, and conditions of the mortages have been broken.

The Marion County Bank, citing the conditions of the mortgage, asks that it be foreclosed and the property in Grand Prairie Township, listed at 435 acres, be sold, to meet the notes.

The Kentucky Joint Stock Land Bank of Lexington is named as a party defendant and asked to set up its claims in the case.

FIFTY-SEVEN MEXICANS AND INDIANS KILLED

Nogales, Ariz., Sept. 22—Twenty-seven Mexican soldiers and 30 Yaqui Indians were killed when a band of three hundred warring tribesmen ambushed a federal detachment near Oros, Mexico, according to word reaching here today.

MARION GIVES ONLY $35 TO FLORIDA FUND

Red Cross Urging Organizations To Aid in Storm Relief Work

Marion's response to the Red Cross appeal for funds to aid in relief work in devastated Florida had not been very generous up to noon today. Contributions left at local banks, which have been designated as places where cash donations may be made, totalled only $35.

In the meantime the disaster relief committee of the local Red Cross Chapter is urging all local lodges and churches to aid in the relief work and it is expected that this will result in a contribution of substantial proportions from the community. It is expected that collections will be taken at all of the churches, Sunday.

E. J. Salter, Marion manager of the American Express Co., today notified Miss Nina Doughty, secretary of the local Red Cross chapter, that he had received a communication from company headquarters instructing agents to receive and transport all Florida relief supplies free of charge. No arrangements have been made as yet for collecting supplies here, raising of funds being the only movement under way.

Governor Gives $25

Mayor Earl R. Hazen this morning received a telegram from Governor Donahey, asking him to forward the name of the Marion County Red Cross chairman, and if there should be none in the county, to appoint a banker to receive contributions. The mayor immediately apprised the governor of the relief measures.

The message from the governor, which stated, "Ohio citizens are anxious to assist stricken Florida," was forwarded to every county in the state. At the same time Mr. Donahey personally contributed $25 to the fund being raised through the Columbus Red Cross chapter.

More Get Word

Messages bearing tidings from former residents of Marion and vicinity in the Florida storm area continue to drift in slowly to anxious friends and relatives. All news received so far has disclosed no casualties among people from Pittman was indicted by Marion County Grand Jury last September on charges of manslaughter. He pleaded guilty to the charges and was sentenced to an indefinite term in the reformatory at Mansfield.

Pittman, about four years ago, is alleged to have killed another negro in the local Erie yards following a game of "craps." He escaped from Marion and was not arrested until three years later, when he was taken into custody at Detroit.

Still In Jail

Joe Durst, of Columbus, who was committed to County Jail yesterday upon failure to pay his $10 fine and costs, assessed by Judge Charles L. Justice when he pleaded guilty to reckless driving charges, continued to occupy a cell today. Durst has not been able to procure the money to dispose of the fine.

Well Driller Sues

Asking judgment for $209.20 against Roy Lantz, of near Caledonia, W. C. Carlin, well driller, today filed action in Common Pleas Court.

Carlin asserts that he entered into a contract with Lantz to drill a well at the rate of $1.00 a foot. The well, when completed July 8, 1926, was 187 feet deep, making the cost of construction $209.20. This sum has not yet been paid, Carlin declares.

Suit Dismissed

The divorce action of Cora E. Morris against Benjamin Davis Morris, of this city, involving charges of gross neglect and cruelty, was yesterday dismissed from Common Pleas Court at the cost of Mrs. Morris.

Files Answer

Grover Bosart, truck driver of this city, being sued for $15,000 damages by James A. Lee, residing west of Marion on the Green Camp-pk, as the result of an accident in which the eight-year-old son of Lee was killed, today filed an answer in the case.

Bosart denies all responsibility in the death of Robert Dale Lee, son of James Lee, and charges that his death was due entirely to his negligence and the negligence of his parents.

On June 8, 1926, Bosart, driving his truck toward Marion on the Green Camp-rd, struck the eight-year-old son of Lee, who was riding a tricycle along the pike. The force of the collision caused the death of the lad, it is claimed.

Suit for partition has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Ida M. Rapp, E. Center-st, against William Gaskell and others. The property consists of 140 acres in Marion Township.

The property formerly belonged to Sarah E. Harvey, late of Marion Township, and Mrs. Rapp claims one-fifth interest as a sister of the deceased.

A gala affair will be the opening night of the fall activities of the Marion Young Men's Christian Association, Monday, Sept. 27, according to the program issued by General Secretary Martin Verburg, today.

Both gymnasiums and the bowling alleys will be the principal scenes for the entertainment. Nearly all classes of the women's, men's and boys' departments will take part in the program.

Refreshments will be served by members of the women's department of the Y. M. C. A. following the entertainment numbers.

Members are requested to bring friends with them regardless whether they are "Y" members or not.

COSHOCTTON MAN FOUND GUILTY OF GIRL MURDER

Robert F. Thompson, 54, Declares His Prayer Has Been Answered in Verdict

Coshocton, Sept. 22—Satisfied that his prayer that he be found guilty of the murder of 10-year-old Gertrude D'Ostroph had been answered by the jury which returned a verdict condemning to death in the electric chair, Robert F. Thompson, 54, today calmly awaited his fate in the county jail here.

Thompson prayer during the deliberations of the jury that he be permitted to pay with his life for the fatal attack on the little girl, according to deputy sheriffs who guarded him as he sat in his cell, waiting for the verdict. The jury deliberated five hours. Thompson's defense was insanity. His attorney, Clyde Burklew, did not make a closing argument, letting the case rest on its merits. The defendant had admitted on the stand his willingness to pay for the crime with his life.

Sentence will be passed Saturday by Judge James Glenn.

OBITUARY

Lester Miller died Sept. 6th, 1926, at his home near Prospect at the age of 77 years and 12 days. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Miller and was born near Waldo, Aug. 25th, 1849. He had been a great sufferer of Brights disease the past three years, bearing his sufferings bravely to the end. One son Perry preceded him in death. He leaves his wife and two sons Owen and Henry of Marion, one sister, Mrs. J. A. Whiteman of Waldo, three brothers Elmer and Jerome of Mich., and Nathaniel of Marion, two grandchildren Mrs. John Guy of Marion and Perry Miller of Cleveland, two great grandchildren Geneva May Guy and Junior Miller besides a host of friends and relatives. He was a good husband and father and a kind neighbor. He heard the call of the Master and his soul responded I'm ready my Lord to go. When the Master said "Come" he closed his eyes to the things of earth with its sufferings, sorrow and pain. And opened them in the presence of loved ones in the paradise of God. He was a member of the Lutheran Church. His funeral services was held at the home Sept. 9th, 1926, in charge of Rev. Hunziker, pastor of the church and under whom he had been converted. Burial was made in Prospect Cemetery.

Call not back the dear departed
Anchored safe where storms are o'er
On the border land we left him
Soon to meet and part no more.
When we leave this world of changes
When we leave this world of care,
We shall find our missing loved one
In our Father's mansion fair.

Preparing Dead

In water to their knees, morticians are preparing the bodies of the dead for funeral homes, on counters of former stores converting out of the water and on hastily prepared tables.

The water here was up to nine feet when the lakes of the Okeechobee broke but now is approximately two feet deep. The main business street is littered with broken plate glass, bottles and debris underneath the dirty water which poured into this city Saturday.

Moorehaven and its dead are now practically deserted except for the few women and children waiting in attics to be taken to Sebring for temporary housing. Upon the arrival of the first relief train in Sebring, relief workers did all that was possible to rescue the living. Food and dry clothing and blankets were carried to the last of the railroad tracks and then the few boats there were filled with provisions, fresh water and medicine to slowly be pushed or dragged to the scene of devastation.

Water was even then above the waistline and hiking miles in the water with arms full of provisions not knowing where there might be deep washouts in the former roadbed, the relief workers pushed on, with difficulty, towards the stricken city.

Bodies of the drowned could be seen at high places where they had been swept by the water of the broken dikes. Chickens cackled from floating boards and housetops where they had flown to safety. Water hyacinths covered many bodies and large metal oil tanks were eight and ten miles from their original positions. Where a little stretch of road stuck out of the water, hundreds of rabbits and other small animals were lying drowned where they had scampered to what they thought a safe place. Relief work was difficult for all.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES FOR AUTO CRASH VICTIM

Joseph M. Hepp, Killed in Bucyrus-Rd Mishap, Buried at Mansfield

Funeral services for Joseph M. Hepp, 35, of Cleveland, part owner of the Marion Sandwich Shop and the local Studebaker agency and broker for the Suburban Light & Power Co., Cleveland, were held at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Lutheran Church at Mansfield. Burial was also to be in Mansfield Cemetery.

Arrangements for the funeral were made by R. M. Meade, connected with the Cleveland concern which Mr. Hepp was employed together with his sister, Miss Pauline Hepp, of Philadelphia, who arrived in Marion yesterday.

The Studebaker Garage, S. Prospect-st in which Hepp was part owner was closed yesterday, and continued closed today. The Marion Sandwich Shop, W. Center-st, was closed for the funeral this afternoon.

Mr. Hepp was killed when the car crashed into a Nash sedan and turned over on the Marion-Bucyrus-pk at 6:30 o'clock Monday night.

He sustained a broken neck and a fractured skull. He died in an ambulance enroute to City Hospital.

His companion, said by officials of the Suburban Light & Power Co., of Bucyrus, to be Miss Elizabeth Kearney, of Cleveland, escaped uninjured. Witnesses say the girl was driving the car. Almost immediately following the accident she boarded a train for her home.

Mrs. H. E. Moore, of South Amherst, was driving the Nash sedan into which the Hepp Studebaker crashed.

Several Rules For Management of Central Junior High Building Announced at Meeting

School government was discussed at a meeting of Central Junior High teachers at the building after school hours yesterday afternoon.

Principal W. E. Orcutt was in charge of the meeting. Other school details for the ensuing year were also discussed.

It was announced that in the future the students of the school who carry their noonday luncheons will be permitted to eat in a room on the second floor of the building. The girls will eat in the eastern part of the study hall.

The boys were ordered to lock their respective rooms after the last period every noon before leaving the building.

venience of the public, the tribunal's quarters should be on the ground floor.

Transfer Seen

Should the latter plan be adopted, it will be necessary to transfer several of the city offices to the second story. In case such changes are made, the aim the least number of transactions with te least number of transactions with the public.

Included in the plans will be enlargement of the city jail, made necessary by the fact that the municipal court will handle all criminal and misdemeanor cases now coming before the two local justices of the peace in addition to those heard by the mayor. Quarters for women prisoners must also be provided. This is required by the state law, which has never been complied with in the arrangement of the local jail. It is not likely that more than one or two cells will be needed for this department, as women prisoners are rarely taken into custody here.

restoration to normal, sorrowful but undaunted over the loss of approximately 400 lives and property damage variously estimated to be between $100,000,000 and $250,000,000 in the hurricane of last Saturday.

Missing persons may swell the death list to more than 500, but it is believed most of the dead have been reported.

Denial was made today of a reported conflict between civil and military authorities over relief administration, but rumors continued of a rift brought about by determination of local men to make plain that this city was not helpless and entirely dependent upon outside help in caring for its storm victims and rebuilding.

Brief Wire Service

The Western Union Telegraph Co. was able to maintain brief wire service from here early today and by tonight, the Southern Bell Telephone Co. expects to have a few of its wires in workable condition.

With the hurricane which wrecked this city and all towns in the vicinity diverted to Pensacola and Mobile, the southeastern coast of Florida today prepared to combat a fresh menace—epidemic.

Thirty-one cases of typhoid already have been reported in Hollywood and Fort Lauderdale owing to the pollution of the water supply.

Special supplies of antitoxin were being rushed here from northern cities to combat the fresh menace. The official check of the dead in Miami and on Florida's east coast now has passed the 300 mark, and more than 6,000 are injured.

As a warning to all looters, whose work has added to the horrors of the storm area, two negroes discovered at Hialeah cutting rings from corpses hands, were hanged to electric light poles and their bodies riddled with bullets, according to reports from there.

The tangle which the hurricane made of communications is being slowly straightened out. Contact has been established to a limited extent with Pensacola and Mobile. Pensacola reported many injured there and great property damage, with the waterfront in ruins. Mobile reported no known loss of life, but damage probably amounting to $1,000,000.

The island of Bimini, Bahamas, was devastated by the same hurricane that swept Florida, according to reports here. Although property damage was great no loss of life was reported.

SERUM RUSHED TO MIAMI

Washington, Sept. 22—All available typhoid anti-toxin and tetanus vaccine at the headquarters of the seventh naval district—Key West—have been rushed to stricken Miami to combat the menace of epidemics, according to a message to the Navy Department this morning from the base commandant.

A coast guard patrol boat, carrying tents, food and water, also has been dispatched to the relief of a party of 50 persons, reported marooned off Last Man's River, and suffering from exposure.

The coast guard cutter Sauke, which has rendered yeoman service in the relief work around Miami, has gone ashore outside the harbor, but is expected to be floated at high tide today.

Three thousand persons are absolutely destitute at Miami, the navy dispatch said, and another 6,000 are being housed in emergency makeshifts. The bread supply of the city was reported insufficient to meet the demand and there is also some worry over the water supply. A diver, with sea-going apparatus, was included among the relief agencies dispatched from the seventh district naval base, presumably to aid in recovering bodies from the waters surrounding Miami.

PENSACOLA TRIES TO GET WIRES UP

New Orleans, Sept. 22—Still isolated by the tropical hurricane, Pensacola today continued its efforts to communicate with the outside world by means of radio.

The Pensacola naval air station, several times reported disabled by the terrific storm, wirelessed the Algiers naval radio station that three persons were killed, many injured and extensive property damage by the 120-mile-an-hour gale.

This was the third message to be received from Pensacola by radio in 24 hours. Late yesterday, the naval air station sent a wireless to the effect that great property damage was done. Later, the revenue cutter Tallapoosa said the gale had damaged many ships.

Two foreign ships, unnamed, broke both their moorings and went aground, the Tallapoosa wirelessed. Many small crafts were reported sunk.

While property loss was great, more extensive damage was prevented by the fact that the Santa Rosa Island acted as a natural breakwater while the storm raged for two days.

Radio Damaged

The air station suffered some damage from the storm, accounting for its long silence. The damage was reported small, however, and repaired sufficiently to give the waiting outside world the first news of the hurricane toll.

As the storm damage was being repaired, Pensacola thought of its sister cities to the south and prepared to raise funds for the sufferers in Miami and adjacent towns.

Meanwhile, additional reports of fatalities in the hurricane that struck the gulf coast after it devastated southeastern Florida, came in today.

Three children were drowned in Baldwin County, Alabama, reports said, while property loss in coastal towns may reach a huge total.

Mobile, Ala., cut off from outside communication for several days, had its badly crippled wires partially restored today. No loss of life occurred there, but loss to public buildings and public utilities will reach $2,000,000.

Wharf Fronts Demolished

The whole of the wharf fronts in Mobile and Pensacola were demolished and the damage suffered by Pensacola will total at least $3,000,000, it was conservatively estimated. The Louisville & Nashville reported losses in the Florida port at $800,000.

Electrical plants and street car services were put out of commission in Mobile, Pensacola and other cities and towns hit by the storm, with the possibility they may not be fully restored for several days.

The hurricane has about spent its force. The last heard of it was that it was moving northwestward into Mississippi with rapiddly diminishing intensity. A light rain with moderate winds was falling today in Vicksburg and New Orleans.

Train service here was somewhat hampered by conditions along the coast. High water was forecast for Lake Pontchartrain as the result of a two-inch rainfall. Shipping has escaped with practically no damage, as ample warning had been given in advance of the storm.

Vessel Aground

The only vessel reported in distress was the United Fruit Co. steamer Andersonen, for New York from Guatemala, with a cargo and crew of 45 men and officers, which was said to be aground near Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

A tugboat dispatched to eastern shore resorts from Mobile made a thorough survey and reported that Fairhope, Point Clair and Zundles said to have been wiped out by the storm, were virtually undamaged. No loss of life was reported.

As far as could be ascertained, the heaviest loss to the const section will be the damage to the pecan crop. Various reports said the loss would be 90 per cent. The property loss was particularly heavy in Pensacola and Ocean Springs, but at Meridian, Miss., the cotton damage will be less than five per cent.

MOBILE RETURNING TO NORMAL AGAIN

Mobile, Ala., Sept. 22—This city, cut off by the hurricane for several days, was rapidly returning to normal today, with street cars again operating and industries and commercial houses opening for business.

Escaping with no loss of life and few injuries, Mobile citizens were happy that they fared better than did the southeast Florida cities.

While the storm raged, business was halted and it was only today that the city recovered sufficiently to resume commercial life.

Newspapers, suspended when the power plant went down, again reappeared, and telephones were put into commission while wires leading to Mobile were repaired for regular service. The total damage suffered in the storm varies from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

this locality, but one message told of serious property damage sustained by Joseph Ryan, son of Mrs. Thomas Ryan of 216 Oak-st. Mr. Ryan telegraphed his mother informing her that while he escaped uninjured, the roofs of his house and garage were blown off and his automobile partly wrecked.

Telegrams from others in the storm district, while telling of escapes from injury, say nothing about property loss. It is generally believed that many of the former Marionites and other friends and relatives of people here will suffer seriously in that respect.

A telegram was received today by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Sheneman, 854 S. Davids-st, from Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Hemmerly of Fort Lauderdale, stating that they escaped safely although having been in the center of the district where the storm did the most damage. The home of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hemmerly from Somerset, Ky., who accompanied them on the trip south, was completely destroyed. Mr. and Mrs. Hemmerly formerly resided on N. Oak-st. Mrs. Hemmerly is a sister of Mr. Sheneman.

SCHLESINGER TELLS OF LETTER OF RESIGNATION

State Highway Director Makes Admission in Mayfield-Rd Hearing

Cleveland, Sept. 22—Closing arguments in the injunction suit to halt progress on the construction of the much-debated Mayfield-rd in Cuyahoga County today centered on the supposed letter of resignation sent by State Highway Director George E. Schlesinger to Governor A. V. Donahey, which attorneys for the petitioners claim was used by Donahey as a "club" over the highway director.

Schlesinger while on the stand at an earlier hearing admitted under questioning of John A. Cline, attorney for the petitioners, that he had written a letter of resignation to Governor Donahey after he had been appointed to the post.

"I wrote the governor a letter, shortly after I took office," Schlesinger said, "which read: 'Any time my services are unsatisfactory, I will resign at your request.'"

This admission came after Cline had told Common Pleas Judge Charles A. Reid that "while Schlesinger is the legal director, the real voice and the real direction of the Highway Department is the governor."

William H. Boyd, Cleveland attorney for the Dorsey Construction Co., fighting the injunction to restrain construction of the road, took up the cudgels for Schlesinger. He denied that such a letter could be construed as a resignation or be wielded as a club. Any attempt to halt the construction of the Mayfield road could be considered as detrimental to the welfare and best interests of the citizens who use that thoroughfare, he said. Attorney Charles W. Druggan, associated with Boyd, was scheduled to speak this afternoon and he will be followed by Cline who will give the closing arguments.

ule will be closed on that date. Should the commission grant the cities' application for additional data, and it is indicated that such action is likely to be taken, it will be several weeks before the case comes up for final hearing. Mr. Mouser believes, however, that the cities will be able to wind up their case in time for the commission to hand down its decision before January 1.

Rates Temporary

The rates against which protests have been filed and which have been the subject of many months of controversy before the Utilities Commission, are temporarily in force, the gas company having filed a bond to guarantee refunds to consumers in case the schedule is ultimately ruled out.

There are more than 70 Ohio municipalities affected by the rates. Mouser is directing the fight in behalf of those cities, having been selected for that purpose by a vote of the various city solicitors.

It may safely be said that the present summer, which will come to an end tomorrow with the arrival of autumn at 2:27 p.m., has not been equaled for the number of its rains in the memory of the oldest inhabitant, nor, for the number of the mosquitos which its excessive moisture no doubt helped to breed.

We are unable to agree with the view that her amateur standing is the first thing Miss Lenglen has surrendered. Very frequently in the past Suzanne has been known voluntarily to let go of her temper.

At eighty-five years of age, Edward Peyson Weston is working as a handy man in a Kingston, New York, hotel. Thus this one-time champion heel-and-toe walker has demonstrated one fact and made a double record. The fact is that walking is healthy. Regarding the double record, does anybody recall any other professional athlete who worked at eighty-five; any other professional athlete who even was living at eighty-five.

After More of Our Money.

The proposed plan to liquidate the German reparations bonds, thus permitting France to utilize the proceeds to stabilize the franc, would hinge upon the selling of the bonds, and the United States apparently is the only country in position to buy them. It might strike the average man that the bag we are now holding for the European militarists is already sufficiently large; that we may be forced to bear the big end of the financial cost of the World war as it is, without adding to our liabilities. The most of us have no liking for the plan to make this country pay for a war it did not start and entered only to prevent an upheaval of all existing conditions.

More than this, the present is hardly the psychological time to ask the United States again to go to the aid of the French. Their appreciation of the aid we have already rendered them has not been such as to arouse a desire on our part to repeat the performance.

The French may not appreciate the fact, but their long-drawn-out wails of inability to pay their refusal even so much as to recognize the debt they owe us as a valid one, the almost continuous reiteration of their charge that we are Shylocks and their studious insults to American tourists in their land combine to raise a feeling which casts a shadow of doubt upon the possibility that we may be willing to invest more of our means to their benefit.

We may be in error, but we can not feel other than that American capital will be a bit slow about making such response as will meet the working of French relief under the proposed plan.

Mighty Spots on the Sun.

Is there any relation between spots on the sun and the terrific wind and rain storms which have swept not only our own country, but foreign lands as well? We do not refer particularly to the West Indian hurricane which is spending what is left of its force inland after causing an awful toll of death and property destruction along our extreme South Atlantic and Gulf coasts, but to the many great storms suffered in all parts of the world in recent months.

Scientists say that no terrestrial consequences other than magnetic and auroral in character can be attributed with certainty to sun spots, yet the fact remains that the past summer has witnessed storms unusual in number and severity, and it is likewise a fact that the spots on the sun at present are unusually large, so large in fact that they may be seen with the naked eye with the use of a well-smoked piece of glass.

A day or two ago, Professor E. B. Frost, director of Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago, announced that two immense sun-spots are now visible to the naked eye, at the same time stating that such spots can not be thus seen until a group of them is about 100,000 miles in extent. In other words, a group of sun spots must have a circumference four times that of the earth before it becomes visible to the unaided eye. The professor also states that the present sun disturbance has been active since early in June, and a little study will bring to mind the fact that we have had an undue number of storms and unusual rainfalls since the early part of June. Again it is a fact that most of our great atmospheric disturbances have come at a time when there were spots on the side of the sun next to us. This has been noted almost since spots on the sun have been observed.

But while scientists refuse to speak with certainty with regard to a cause-and-effect connection between sun spots and terrestrial storms, they do hold that there is a connection between sun-spots and terrestrial consequences of a magnetic and auroral character, and at the time of his announcement of the big sun spots, Professor Frost stated that "there is a pretty good chance that a magnetic storm and northern lights may occur within the next few days."

In a word, scientists refuse to hold the sun spots responsible for our storms, but they do see a magnetic connection between big sun spots and magnetic disturbances, and now one of them tells us to watch for northern lights in the near future.

Let's watch and see if these scientists really know what they are talking about in connection with a relationship between sun spots and northern lights.

A world's heavyweight championship should be decided on its merits, hence let us hope that even an unfriendly audience will refrain from singing "Over There."

Secretary Mellon says the income tax receipts for September have exceeded expectations and are higher than those of last September despite the cut in the rates. Were we not satisfied that "Uncle Andrew" is not built that way, we might assume that he gets just a wee bit of satisfaction in showing up the federal legislative Napoleons of finance as he has.

"While I'm not personally interested in the sultan of Sulu," remarked the fellow who lives next door on the way down town this morning, "you simply can't help but sympathize with a fellow who has a thousand wives."

It is apparent that some of the first "eye-witness" stories coming out of Miami were not wholly in accord with fact. But, then, under such conditions eye-witnesses can hardly be blamed for seeing things they didn't see.

When we read of the marked increase in the number of millionaires in this country in comparatively recent years we thought we knew the answer, but since noting that the statistics upon which the statement is based go back to 1914, we are all at sea again. The gentlemanly bootleggers didn't inaugurate their thriving industry that far back.

Although a scientist tells us that the bites of a great majority of snakes are utterly harmless, that kind of talk is never going to dispel the apprehension of those who believe in being at all times prepared to utilize the old-time remedy.

Despite all the effort the Cleveland authorities have made to lessen the number of automobile casualties up there, the record thus far this year exceeds that of the same period of last. Of course, there is no question but what the Forest City has more cars this year than last, and the carelessness of drivers and pedestrians not having shown diminution, naturally the number of accidents and casualties alike has increased.

Vagrant Verse.

WAYFARER.

O mortal man,
Thou art as one who fares
Upon a journey, stopping at an inn
For brief refreshment—finding there within
Food, rest, good cheer
And freedom from the cares
And peril of the roads. . . . The lights are bright,
The music, merry;
The companions, gay;
Soft eyes entreat,
Red lips lure him to stay—
Shall he fare forth to journey through the night?

Nay, rather will
The weary traveler
Lay down his pack, forget his voyaging,
Join in the dancing and the reveling,
Touch wine cups with
Each fellow wayfarer—
And there, unmindful of the road, will stay
Until the host himself turn him away!

So thou too tarriest, O man, within
This huddled hostelry of life,
Content
With all the foolish feasting of the inn
Until the hoard of thy good gold
Is spent—
Then, only then, when thou canst pay no more,
Will thou slip to the darkness through the door!

THE LEANING TOWER.

Precepts Guide a Wealthy Man.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

A few weeks ago the richest man in the world had a birthday. John D. Rockefeller, Sr., was eight-seven years of age on July 8.

This doesn't seem to be an extreme age to me, because my father is in good health in his eighty-ninth year, and I have an uncle who celebrated his 101st birthday in June. After all, however, to be vigorous and active at eighty-seven is an achievement. It speaks well for the care Mr. Rockefeller has taken of himself through these many years.

It must be admitted that during the past thirty years Mr. Rockefeller hasn't worked very hard. During that time he has given himself out-of-door life almost every day of the year. He is said to be stronger and happier now than he was when he was sixty.

Mr. Rockefeller's physician is a lifetime friend of mine. In 1916 Dr. H. F. Biggar, of whom I speak, prepared some rules for his patient. I understand Mr. Rockefeller has not failed to follow Dr. Biggar's instructions. Undoubtedly his willingness to submit to regulation has had much to do with his good health and continued life.

If you were as rich as Mr. Rockefeller, being worth a couple of billions or thereabouts, perhaps you wouldn't need Dr. Biggar's first rule. "Don't worry," is the first in the list of things you must or must not do in order to reach a hundred.

Money does not keep people from worrying. Some of the worst worriers I ever knew were the richest men and women of my acquaintance. It isn't poor people alone who worry. There is an old saying:

"Those who have money are troubled about it. Those who have none are troubled without it."

To keep the wolf from the door is too often a cause of great anxiety and worry. To know what to do in a business deal and how to invest a million dollars may be just as worrisome. All these things are relative. You can worry if you are rich and worry if you are poor. If you have confidence in God and faith in yourself you don't need to worry whether you are rich or poor.

Dr. Biggar is right in putting worry first. I don't believe anybody can be happy or look forward to a reasonable expectation of life if he worries all the time.

St. Matthew said in his gospel:

"Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature?

"And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin."

If we read Matthew's gospel in the right spirit we will understand what he meant when he said:

"Therefore take no thought, saying: What shall we eat? or, what shall we drink? or, wherewithal shall we be clothed?"

This does not mean, of course, that there shall be no sensible attention to the needs of the body, but it does indicate that it is unchristian and irreligious to indulge in unavailing anxiety regarding what tomorrow shall bring forth.

Dr. Biggar's second rule is: "Don't acquire overweight."

The great trouble about overweight is that the victim permitted himself to become too heavy. It is almost impossible to take off weight when once it has been acquired. The important thing is to live such a manner of life that the weight is kept down.

Further rules are: "Drink three quarts of water every day; exercise daily; sleep in the fresh air."

It is because Mr. Rockefeller has followed these simple rules that he has prospered physically. It will be well for the rest of us to follow Dr. Biggar's advice.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

MISS S. W. Q—Three weeks ago my right heel began to pain and swell so that it was impossible to walk. I strapped the foot for a week, but the trouble still persists. What do you advise?

A—This trouble may be due to fallen arches. It might be advisable for you to consult an orthopedist. Perhaps he will suggest the wearing of supports.—Copyright, 1926.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

The United States contains only six per cent. of the world's population. But the United States converts into forms for human use one-half of the world's basic materials—coal, iron, copper and oil. A comparatively small number of men are in command of the agencies for production. A small group is responsible for leadership on the way to industrial supremacy. Does the small group feel its responsibility?

Folks fall into two lots: The pep and promise crowd, and the facts and finish crowd.

We all know men who are full of "jump and holler" at the start of every enterprise. They make the most noise. They really do much good because of the enthusiasm they set going. The pep and promise men have a lot to say about the bacon. They know where it is. But the facts and finish boys go and get it. They bring it home. All community enterprises need both kinds.

Travelers who have been in China tell us that the Chinese are a hospitable people. In Manchuria it is the custom to pass the snuff box. If the host has no snuff, he passes the box anyway—to show that he means well and that his heart is in the right place. It is funny to pass an empty snuff box. It seems a poor piece of hospitality.

But there is merit in the way of the Chinaman. The little gift is as important as the big gift. Our days are made happy, life is made tolerable, by the little gift.

A man said, speaking of his boss: "He doesn't know that I would work my head off for a few kind words."

Kind words are little gifts.

Friendships is not be bought at a fair. So goes the old proverb. It is well said.

We speak loosely, inaccurately, of having many friends. We mean we have many acquaintances. Friends are not picked up and made fast quickly. They are not the products of a day or a year. A friend is the sturdy growth of many years.

The friend is the one who sticks by you when he knows all about you.

An old story is to the effect that a country doctor of many years ago, puzzled by a patient's ailment, said: "I can't cure what he's got, but I can give him something that will make him have fits—and I can cure fits."

Hope is held out that paresis, one of the heretofore hopeless manias of man, may be cured when the patient is infected with malaria germs. Malaria, the curse of a large part of our country, may become also malaria the benefactor.

There is another and less serious story about the practicability of malaria. It is related that on the Ohio river, where there is plenty of "fever and ague," a young man felt his regular attack of chills coming on. He told his father that the "fever 'n ager" was coming.

"Wait a minute," cried the old man. "Wait till I get the churn ready."

Today's Worst Story.

BY WILL ROGERS.

The worst joke I heard today was told to me by D. E. Lee, of Oakdale, California. He is cashier of the First National bank, of Oakdale. Oakdale has so many national banks that they have to number them. Well this one is the First National one. Now don't get this town confused with Oakland, California. There is an Oakland, a suburb of Berkeley, but this one is Oakdale. This joke also comes under the heading of matrimonial repartee.

Well he thought he was getting away with it when his wife, Maudie, appeared at the door, and when he tried to turn the back of his head to her to kiss, she said: "Buck, you needn't turn the back of your head on me. You are drunk clear through."—Copyright, 1926.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. M'INTYRE.

New York, Sept. 22—Tenth avenue, despite its poverty and squalor, offers a robust challenge to life. Somehow there is an atmosphere of virility—a section where people have accepted the bludgeonings of chance without a whimper.

Young men and boys have an impudent, cocky stride. There is a harsh note to the laughter of women. Street gamins defy whizzing autos and death-dealing trucks with breath-taking recklessness. The thoroughfare does not seem tough, but merely rowdy and gay.

There are certain sections—notably Hell's Kitchen—where the cops move in pairs, but as a general rule the street is orderly. But it takes no back talk. And when fists fly no one interferes for in this way Tenth avenue takes care of disputes.

On lower Tenth avenue where freight trains move their ponderous loads are those picturesque modern Paul Reveres. They are young men who ride in front of engines on calico ponies waving red lanterns and warning people and vehicle away from the track.

So skilled do they become in horsemanship that many have become jockeys. Beyond the avenue southward is West street with its great piers and slips from which transatlantic and coastwise steamers move out to sea.

This too is a double-fisted neighborhood of longshoremen and hardy dock wallopers. Great Percheron horses strike fire from cobblestones as they move their big loads. There is the clatter and bang of falling crates and bores amid foaming steeds and sweating, cursing men.

After a Broadway play has settled down for a long run the players face a monotonous tedium—night after night the same lines and gestures to a sea of strange faces. It is said that all New York that goes to the theater will see a play in three months. After that the patronage is given over almost entirely to transients. The players scan the audience for familiar faces to toss a welcoming nod and smile. A long run means a fortune for a producer, but he has his troubles. The intimacy among the cast breeds its swarm of petty bickerings and jealousies. I am reliably told that in one musical show after a year's run only two chorus men were speaking off stage. A star is the target for most of the wrath, for her lines and "business" become so familiar than the most obscure chorus girl thinks she could play the part just as well. And, in many instances, she probably could.

Who's Who and Why.

EDWARD N. HURLEY.

Another American captain of industry who has risen from the bottom is Edward N. Hurley, who is today one of the nation's principal manufacturers and a leading expert on business and trade.

As a youth, Hurley worked on a farm near Galesburg, Illinois, at eight dollars a week. At the age of nineteen, he was earning $35 a month as the youngest engineer of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, but a strike of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers came, and Hurley walked out with the bunch, never to return.

It was not until he became a salesman for a company manufacturing metallic packing for valves that his inventive genius began to show. First it was a pneumatic bell-ringer, for which his concern rewarded him with a $25-a-month increase. A few more inventions increased his pay from $100 to $300 a month. Then he perfected a pneumatic blow-off cock for cleansing dirt out of locomotive boilers and asked his firm for a dollar of the five dollars profit it would make on each one sold. The firm refused and also denied him the customary salary increase, so he quit.

Hurley made pneumatic tools his specialty. He started a factory in a barn, staking the few thousand dollars he had saved. He sold more and more tools and made a success with his invention of a pneumatic boring machine. He founded a big tool company in Chicago, and then went to England and erected a factory, after talking English investors into the enterprise.

At the age of thirty-eight he sold out, a millionaire, retiring to his country place in Wheaton, where for several years he farmed and bred prize stock. Business called to him again, however, and he built up another big and successful manufacturing company in Chicago, which has made him another fortune. He became a director of banks and railroads, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, chairman of the federal trade commission, chairman of the shipping board, and more recently a member of the American debt funding commission.

"He's ... bringing Yvonne," Johnny ...opening a fresh bottle of gin ...into it with the usual post... Volstead distrust. "He's bringing some other girl. Told me so yesterday. Forget to tell you about it."

"He is?"

"He is."

"Why, what's that mean?" Peg marveled.

"I don't know," said Johnny, "but I know what I hope."

"Me, too. I don't like her either."

"Oh, I like her all right enough," Johnny contradicted. "But not for old Jock. Wrong kind entirely. Listen! There he is now."

Outside in the street was heard an automobile horn braying a little refrain. "Honk-honky-honk-honk—honk honk!"

Peg and Johnny with one accord went to a window and threw it open, drenching their portesting guests with zero air. They hung out. Four stories below they could see Jock's roadster, and Jock assisting to alight from it a diminutive person in a fur coat and a dot of green hat.

"Ship ahoy!" boomed Johnny.

"Look out, you'll fal over backward," warned Peg, giggling, as Jock and Cecily stretched their necks to look up.

"Wait'll you see what I've brought!" Jock shouted from the sidewalk, and the pair vanished into the doorway below.

Their arrival at the apartment proper was attended by an untoward mishap. Amy Hazelton, the girl at the piano, understanding that Jock had Yvonne with him and desiring to ... apropos, struck crashing chords . . . Jock and Cecily entered to the Bridal March by Lohengrin.

"Why, how nice!" said Cecily, quite unabashed. "Now if somebody'll lend me a lace curtain—"

Amy gasped and jerked her fingers from the keys. "Oh, I'm so sorry—why, I thought of course it would be Yvonne!" she explained brightly.

Peg rushed to the rescue, and without waiting to be introduced to Cecily introduced her to the room at large. "Say hello to these tramps, my dear," she directed, hooking her arm into Cecily's. "The one now lumbering toward us is my warden, Johnny Havens. And this is Elsie Henry, and that's Dinty Purviance—" She recited names rapidly, and Cecily smiled and twinkled; which was really all the current Cecily had to do to conquer.

"Jock seems to be trying to keep it a secret," she said at the end with just the proper touch of diffidence, "but my name's Cecily—"

And inside of a minute they were calling her Cecily, with unanimous cordiality. They were making quite a little stir about her. Dinny dragged her coat from her shoulders and Johnny handed her a drink, and someone else proffered cigarettes, and the crap shooters shifted to make room for her. And in a few minutes more she was among them on the floor, leaning on one palm, shaking the dice in the other, her wavy brown hair half hiding her cheeks as she bent to see whether or not she got that "Ada from Decatur" she had cried for.

Through all this Jock stood quietly watching; and his were sensations like unto those of a parent whose offspring performs creditably even brilliantly, at a public entertainment. "I knew it!" he crowed in secret. "Takes to 'em like a duck to water—and they to her!" He continued to watch her, entirely unconscious of himself. She lost the dice and sat up straight, a slim supple figure in modish green, with a noteworthy ankle and calf showing beyond the hem of the green skirt. Larry Vane, who sat next her, said something to her in an aside and she laughed, throwing her head back. That line of her throat . . . entrancing . . . Larry looked as if he thought so too.

"Jock," said Peg's voice plaintively, "are you going to stand around till doomday in that overcoat?" And, as he slid out of the coat with guilty haste, there were chuckles and pointed remarks. He saw that his engrossed attention to Cecily had been misinterpreted, and he was confused and angry. "They ought to know better than that!" he told himself peevishly. "They all know about Yvonne. Do they think I'm one of the two-time boys, for heaven's sake?"

After that he took pains not to gaze too often or too long in her direction; but he contrived to miss nothing.

The crap game gave way in time to informal dancing. Rugs were rolled up, chairs sent spinning into corners. Amy Hazelton instructed to play "That thing that goes "ta-ta-tum-te-ta,' you know, and not too fast!" Cecily, flushed and merry, her hands full of crumpled one-dollar bills, was pulled to her feet by Larry and another youth and literally fought over. Finally Dinny Purviance settled the question by carrying her off himself.

Jock danced with Peg. She had pulled her apron around so that it hung from her shoulders down her back like a court train now; she threw it over both their heads. There was an outbreak of comment: "Holy smoke, will you pipe that?" . . . "What is it?" . . . "It's the covered wagon!" "It's a laundry bag with legs!" . . . "Hey, Johnny, better look into this!"

Peg, paying no attention, said in Jock's ear under the sheltering gingham, "She's a knockout!" Who is she?"

"Cecily Graves. Little friend of mine—mine and Yvonne's."

"Since when?"

"Oh, I've known her a long time. Met her over a year ago, and discovered her again New Year's Eve."

"I should think you'd feel as though you discovered America." Peg declared briskly. "I'm sold on her. So's Johnny. So's everybody. Be sure to bring her again."

"I will," Jock promised. Even as he promised, he thought. "But I can't, very many times. I'll be married in a month and they don't want Yvonne."

Some one lifted the apron neatly from their heads by means of an umbrella, Peg meantime complaining that it was a shame if a lady couldn't have a little privacy in her own home. Jock observed that Cecily was dancing now with the cadet, Scott Mason. She caught his eye and wiggled her fingers at him. "So nice to see you again!"

After a while he cut in on her.

"Having a good time?"

"Wonderful."

"Nobody," he said positively, "ever went across any bigger. From the minute you came in the door and spoke right up the way you did—"

Cecily rejoiced to quote his by-gone phrases whenever applicable. She did it now. "Always, when you're introduced to anyone or any group, make a remark, within the first minute—let 'em know you're there."

"And believe me you are there!" he retorted. "There, and way over. I'm all puffed up about it."

They danced without speaking for an interval, both enjoying the antics of the couples rotating about them. The cadet and the straight-haired blonde were presenting an exaggerated interpretation of a Bowery bunny-hug, and Peg and Johnny, by way of contrast, were doing an old-fashioned two-step with over-whelming gravity. Johnny, stiff as a ramrod, stepped as though he were stepping on eggs, and held Peg at arm's length. And Peg bounced and hopped and counted painfully under her breath. "One, two, one, two." The whole was a study in consummate gawkiness.

"Aren't they rich?" whispered Cecily. "Look, Jock—look at Peg's expression! Did you ever see anything funnier? Oh," she added on a little high, "I adore all this! It's so crazy. If I ever have a home of my own I'm going to cultivate just this sort of unconventional happy-go-lucky atmosphere."

"So'h I," said Jock without thinking. And then thought that it had been rather a senseless observation, all things considered. A home of which Yvonne was mistress would perhaps be unconventional, but it would certainly never be happy-go-lucky.

The party romped on. Peg whisked away to the kitchen and came back wheeling a tea cart laden with, as she said, "alleged rarebit." It proved edible, and everyone ate voraciously, sitting on chair arms or on pillowsson the floor. Amy was replaced at the piano by Larry Vane, who struck a Paderewski pose and intolerable discords until removed by force. Cecily, finding a dilapidated ukulele, coaxed melody from it and danced along to her own accompaniment—graceful, and beautifully un-selfconscious. Dinny Purviance, draped in a couch cover and topped by a huge parchment lamp shade, recited the classic of the Drunk and the Pig, with gestures made effective my a sandwich with a bite out of it which he flourished in his hand. Everyone became involved in a warm argument on the subject of spiritualism, which terminated, as such arguments invariably terminate, in the darkening of the room and the tipping of a table, followed immediately by fresh arguments as to who tipped it: "Scott did. I felt him." .... "Why I did not, you egg, you did it yourself!"

"I hate to take you away," Jock said to Cecily at half past five, "but I've got to shove off. Ought to be at the Tavern on time if I can—this is our last night there, you know."

"I should say I do know! You've talked about nothing else for weeks!"

They made their adieux, Jock in a lazy, "So long, everybody," Cecily more punctiliously and personally. They crowded about her, and she sealed twelve new friendships with a smile and a gay word or two apiece. Voices shrieking things after them followed them to the elevator, and when they were again on the street in the spangled dark the window four flights above went up again and Peg called "Hay, Cec-i-lee! How's to have lunch with me Monday?"

Quicksands of Love

BY ADELE GARRISON

I knew by the sudden embarrassed look upon Dicky's face that I had struck home. Edith Fairfax had managed things so that Dicky had bowked with her at the restaurant to which Dicky Veritzen had brought me for the midday meal. I wondered whether her knowledge of my lunching there with the famous prosinver had been as accidental as she had made it appear to Dicky, or whether she had been spying upon me in a catty fashion utterly beneath the standards of a gentlewoman such as I always had believed her to be.

The thought sobered me. Always I had considered Edith Fairfax a fair antagonist. Long ago she had told me that she loved my husband better than I ever could, and I had had no reason to think that the years had brought to her any diminution of that feeling. But until this present association of theirs in the art magazine, Dicky never had given me any real reason for uneasiness in her direction, and I had settled into the belief that the love she had for him was a hopeless thing with no hint of peril for me. I had been sure also that she never would stoop to weapons unworthy of the high standards to which she had been bred.

But since her unexpected success in managing the magazine, in which she had developed a business ability unsuspected by any of us, both Lillian and I had noticed in her a certain ruthlessness, a hardness, utterly foreign to our previous conceptions of her. This chance revelation of Dicky's confirmed that impression.

Suddenly I felt that I could not continue this controversy with Dicky until I had time to think things over from this new angle of Edith Fairfax's interference. Before he could find words to answer my accusation, which he patently had not expected, I slipped past him and spoke incisively.

"Whatever further you wish to say to me certainly can wait until after dinner when we have the place to ourselves. I do not suppose you care to have the others hear this dispute."

I went into my own room and shut the door without giving him a chance to reply. But beyond the reach of his eyes, I sank down into the nearest chair as if I were spent with running.

I did not know what I felt, except that I was bewildered as one might be who suddenly is set down in an unfamiliar forest wiht no landmarks from which to find the way home. I was not as angry at Dicky as his atrocious remarks to me warranted, and I honestly could find no jealousy in my heart for Edith Fairfax. But there suddenly had appeared in my relations with my husband an element which I could not understand, and I felt that I must make an effort to comprehend it before I saw him.

But when after dinner Dicky and I were once more left to ourselves, I found myself no nearer comprehending Edith Fairfax's maneuver than I was before. But one thing I had settled in my own mind. Whether he knew it or not, my husband was crazily jealous of Philip Veritzen.

With the curious inconsistency of most women, I attended to my husband's physical welfare while I was preparing to upset his temper. Carefully I prepared the concoction of fruit juices, ices and sugar with the spray of mint which I always set in the ice-box every summer evening, and to which Dicky adds a bottle of ginger ale when he is ready to go to bed and read. Then with the consciousness of a duty done, and, I am afraid, with the unpleasant-

Pennant Hopes For Cleveland And Cincinnati Cooling

Leaders Remain In Same Positions But Approach End of Their Schedules

American Leaders Are Three Games to Good; St. Louis Has Two Game Lead in National Race with Reds Who Can Only Break into Tie

New York, Sept. 22—While the outcome of the National League race remains problematical, the Yankees appear to have clinched the American League pennant by their crushing defeat of Chicago yesterday. The Yanks, with their lead of three games, can sew up the pennant by winning three out of five, while two victories out five will force Cleveland to make a clean sweep of their five games to tie the leaders.

St. Louis still leads Cincinnati by two games, as both teams were defeated yesterday. By picking up one game on the Cardinals in their next three contests, the Reds can negotiate a tie by winning the last game of the season, with St. Louis. To clinch the pennant, however, Cincinnati must win all four contests while the Cards lost three.

Washington handed three St. Louis pitchers a healthy drubbing, winning 11 to 6. Goslin got three singles and a homer.

The Yankees donned their hitting togs and smothered the White Sox, 14 to 0. Hoyt yielding only two hits.

Ruth contributed his 44th homer and Lazerri hit his 18th.

Tail enders halted both the Cardinals and the Reds. Genewich of the Braves, blanked Cincinnati, 4 to 0, Pete Donohue being the victim.

A two-run rally by the Cardinals in the ninth fell short as the Reds 'Birds lost to Brooklyn, 4 to 3. Petty pitched well for the winners while his mates routed Willie Sherdel, who had beaten Brooklyn five straight.

George Uhle, Cleveland's ace, won in a romp from the Red Sox, 6 to 3. It was George's 26th victory of the season.

Cy Williams hit two doubles and his 18th homer as the Phillies chased Lee Meadows and downed the Pirates, 7 to 2.

With Fitzsimmons on the mound, the Giants trounced the Cubs, 5 to 2.

The Athletics held onto third place by a flea's eyelash, beating Detroit, 3 to 2, on Blue's error. Ehmke held his former mates to five hits.

GENE PERFECTS DEFENSE QUICKLY

Bout Is Only Important Business Deal For Challenger

Stroudsburg, Pa., Sept. 22—Just one day away from the fight that will either make him or break him pugilistically, Gene Tunney has attained the heights of physical perfection. Whether he can maintain that razor edge fitness from now until he steps into the ring with Jack Dempsey is problematical. At any rate, he is ready.

Tunney's mental condition has astounded close students of the game who had a preconceived notion that the young Greenwich Villager would crack under the strain. His attitude is that of a businessman about to embark on a serious mission.

Yesterday's workout was confined exclusively to the perfection of a defense for the whirlwind attack that Dempsey is certain to uncork during the first few rounds. Tunney easily blocked the left hooks and right crosses which his sparring partners, Jimmy Delaney, Billy Vidabeck and Harold Mays tossed at him from every and all angles for three rounds.

YANKS CAN TAKE PENNANT WITH THREE WINS; CLEVELAND NEEDS ALL

When the New York Yankees smothered Chicago 14 to 0, Tuesday they practically took possession of the American League flag. Cleveland must win all of its remaining five games while New York must lose three to allow the Indians to even tie the Yanks for first place. The last two years the American League pennant has been held by the Washington Senators. The panorama above is of the Yankee stadium in New York where one-half of the world's series may be played this fall. Inset in their regular positions, are the regulars of the Yankee team, Urban Shocker, pitching ace of Huggins' crew, and Manager Huggins.

TWO MARIONITES TO ATTEND BOUT

Atty. Hector S. Young left Tuesday on a business trip to Akron and New York City, from where he will go to Philadelphia to witness the Dempsey-Tunney fight. He will be met in Philadelphia by Dr. T. E. Sonnanstine of S. Vine-st, who will also attend the heavyweight battle.

VARSITY ELEVEN PLAYING SCRUBS

Harding High Team Prepares for Saturday's Game at Columbus

Harding High School's football team is playing its first game this afternoon at the fairgrounds in preparation for the opener Saturday at Columbus Saturday with Central High School.

Varsity kicked off at 3 o'clock to the seconds and the game is continuing more than the usual four quarters.

Play will continue until Coaches Paul Sprout and Allen Compton feel that their respective teams have been thoroughly tested, providing of course that the reserves are able to hold out against the big Varsity boys.

Reserves are plentiful this year at Harding High and indications are that a number out for the first time this year will have an opportunity soon to put on one of those brand new Varsity suites.

The Varsity received their new uniforms last night and will continue their team practice each afternoon until Friday when only light workouts will be substituted.

Students are watching the four local Harding High elevens with much interest.

SECRECY STILL POPULAR WITH JACK DEMPSEY

Mystery Surrounds Champion's Camp as He Completes Training

Atlantic City, Sept. 22—Jack Dempsey's training days for the big fight are ended. The army of fistic experts have gone to Philadelphia and Dempsey himself was to leave either today or tomorrow.

The exact time of the champion's departure was in doubt as his movements are to be shrouded to escape any lurking process servers.

The departure is proposed to be a great secret.

"I'm fit—and I'm ready," said the champion today, after he finished up a road jaunt before breakfast. "If condition can win a fight, then here's one that I've already won.

"I'm all through worrying about Kearns and the dozen and one others who have been throwing everything but the Brooklyn Bridge at me. My only worry now is that perhaps Tunney won't come out fighting; that he'll try to clinch and stall. If he does, that'll make it a bit hard for me to get him early. But I am supremely confident."

Dempsey's exact weight remains a mystery. His camp attaches insist that its around 193. The chances are that he will weigh about 197 or 198 for the fight and that at least two or three pounds of it will be just plain fat.

Many Criticisms Made of Boys Who Are Attracting National Attention

World's Leading Fighters Are Poor Enough When It Comes To Picking Winner

Challenger Tunney Never Whipped a Good Man and Will Not Change Style; Champion Dempsey Is Aged and Lacks Winning Punch and Speed, Says Walsh

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

Sept. 22—It is a difficult [illegible] winner of the match for the heavyweight championship of the world tomorrow night for the simple reason that [illegible] such a poor fighter that he is likely to be worse.

[illegible] indictment to draft [illegible] dollar house, but the real matter is that Gene Tunney looked a good man and can change his style now that he is a man without a style when he had them. The man who cut Willard Dempsey at Toledo seven years ago and the writer has tried to describe for the past week without result.

[illegible] have gone. Anyone who knows that now. On the contrary he is a man in perfect condition. His wind is good, his actions those of a fighter who has reached the pinnacle of physical perfection. But he is a slightly [illegible] as we figure things in this corner and the first thing to show this [illegible] is a pair of legs that refuse to carry their master in the style to which he is accustomed.

Dempsey no longer is up on his toes, shooting punches from here and there. He has taken to spreading his legs in order to get all the leverage possible into his punches, and, in doing that, he has cut down his punching speed by a matter of 50 per cent. I look for Dempsey to miss a lot of punches tomorrow night and I have spent much time trying to convince myself that one can't beat a man unless one hits him. So much for Dempsey.

As for Tunney, he is congential counter-hitter which is a type that is supposed to be made to order for Dempsey. He retreats under fire and the leopard changes his spots about as often as the frighter changes his style under fire in the ring. They may have told Tunney what he must do in order to take the play from Dempsey but once the bell rings and the fight is under way, an actor answering his cue will be no more instinctive than Tunney. He will fight the way he is accustomed to fighting, which is to feint a man, ask him to come on and hit and then either make him miss or take the punch where it might land and answer it with a counter. They tell us that Tunney will be a new man against Dempsey; that he will carry the fight to the champion until one or the other goes down and stays there. That, they say, is the only way to beat Dempsey.

I am pleased to doubt it, as far as Gene Tunney is concerned.

CAROLINA SOCIETY TURNS TO TREASURE HUNTING

Treasure-hunting is the latest wrinkle in Carolina society. It is no rare sight to see the elite of the principal cities running helter-skelter around town in search for some treasure, directed from place to place by bits of verse usually written by some local literary light.

The "treasure hunt," being somewhat of a novelty, causes spectators to gaze wonderingly at the groups of laughing men and women who seemingly dart aimlessly hither and thither.

There are as many people who seek a good time in a quiet loaf, as there are who find it in shooting folly as it flies. They don't attract so much attention.

It is the night owl that is the most owlish in the daytime.

MAIN MAY BE ON BENCH SUNDAY

Fans Dissatisfied with Showing Made Against Swinehart Tires

One game only will be played at Lincoln Park Sunday afternoon, at 2:30. Marion's Athletics will be opposed by one of the very few teams which had been able to defeat the locals this season. The Swinehart Tires of Akron, who took the first game last Sunday, only to be turned back in the second encounter, will furnish the opposition again next Sunday.

The Akron lineup will be practically the same as that which played here last week. It is probably that Ewing will again face Marion, in order to make good his alibi that it was the strain of pitching two games that caused him to lose the second, after winning the first.

Manager Bacon is not anticipating any changes. If Buckland is back in shape he will be likely to start the game at third. If not, his place will be filled by Tommy Dougherty or Fido Robbins, who will be on hand in case they are needed. Final selection of a pitcher is still in doubt. It is an open secret that Bacon is highly displeased with the miserable showing of Main in the early innings last Sunday.

Main May Be Benched

There are persistent rumors around sporting headquarters that Main is pitching baseball on Saturdays as well as on Sunday. If this proves to be the case, it is more than probable that Main will adorn the bench while either Sharrock or Reese will be on the mound. Chet has asked Bacon to start him on Sunday's game, as he thinks he is good enough to beat Akron if he gets them for an entire game. However, the pitcher will not be picked until all have warmed up before the game. The one showing the best form will be the final choice. Bacon, as well as the other members of the team, is anxious to wipe out the defeat suffered at the hands of the Swinehearts, and the team will be in there fighting to win.

NEW YORK CENTRALS TAKE SERIES OPENER

Postoffice Crew Defeated 2-0; Banquet To Winners Being Planned

Kenton, Sept. 22—The New York Centrals won the opening contest of the three game series being played this week between the shopmen and the Postoffice to determine the champions of the city recreation ball league.

The final score was 2 to 0. Floyd Robbins, former high school athlete and twirler for the N. Y. C's, and Edgar Merrison, were the opposing twirlers, neither allowing many hits. Robbins was given the better support by his team.

The second tilt is to be played this evening and managers have made arrangements to take care of 1,200 fans.

At the close of the "little world series" participating teams of the city league will tender the city champions a banquet.

WILL MORIARTY SUCCEED LEADER GEORGE SISLER?

There's a rumor afloat in the east that George Sisler is to step down as manager of the St. Louis Browns and that George Moriarty, former Detroit infielder and an umpire in the American League for several years, will succeed Sisler.

FORMER "RED" DEAD

Cincinnati, Sept. 22 — James W. Keenan, 68, thirty years ago a player of prominence with the Cincinnati Reds, is dead here today. He had lived a colorful life and will be long remembered by Cincinnatians as a player and as a politician.

Stanford Team Needs Only Two Men for Strong Eleven

San Francisco, Sept. 22—Two small details are bothering "Pop" Warner, the venerable Stanford football coach these days.

One is a fullback and the other a quarterback. For the Cardinals will have another powerful football eleven this fall if the grand old man of the American game can replace Ernie Nevers, his all-American full and "Muggs" Mitchell who guided the Redshirts through a successful season in 1925 with his smart football intellect.

To fill Ernie Never's shoulder pads will be quite a task for any man. It can hardly be expected that the best that Warner finds will be as good as the famous Nevers but a capable man will do well enough with the supporting cast that Warner can throw about him.

Nevers was the keystone of the Cardinal attack in 1925. He was perfect in his work. Yet Warner is not worrying about a keystone for his offensive. He just wants a good fullback who can punt, carry the ball and tackle.

He will find another starting link for his deceptive work if the fullback won't do and his deception is quite likely to be much different from any he has shown on the coast before.

"Hank" Millage, a freshman star of two years ago, Jim Patchett of the 1925 team and Biff Hoffman, Cardinal weight man choices at this early day.

Millage and Patchet are both good ball carriers and defensive players. Hoffman is a great kicker, it is said, but has never shone on the football field before.

Stanford has not had a brilliant quarterback in many years but any wise football head can carry out Warner's plan of attack. There is some talk of shifting Ed. Walker from end to the field general position and Pop is also thinking of a lad named Post who did good work on the freshman team last season.

Outside of these positions Warner has a veteran team. Murphy and Bougne will hold up their old stations at halfback, Ted Shipkey should have his greatest year at end, Armour, Freeman and Paulson are veteran tackles, Captain Swan looks like the best guard on the Pacific Coast and McCreery is hailed as an all-coast center.

MARYSVILLE TO OPEN FOOTBALL SEASON FRIDAY

Several Changes Made in Shcedule; Delaware High School Is First

Marysville, Sept. 22 — Marysville High Football eleven will open the season Friday, facing Delaware, one of the strongest machines in Central Ohio. This is the first pigskin tilt between the two schools in several years.

Several changes have been made on the M. H. S. schedule. A few teams have been dropped and new games scheduled. The first at home game will be with the strong Ada outfit, a team that was signed only a few days ago. This team takes the place of Trade High, of Columbus, which cancelled its game with the locals because of its consolidation with Central High.

Another team with whom a game has been scheduled during the past week is Salem. This aggregation will be here Oct. 22, a date that was open until a few days ago. The game with Urbana, signed for Nov. 12 has been cancelled and a classy outfit from Kingscreek will furnish the opposition on that date.

Another cancellation which was a great disappointment to local fans was the game for Thanksgiving Day with Richwood. Relations between the two schools have been on a downward slope caused by a controversy at a game played here last year on this same date.

New equipment has been purchased for the backfield which greatly adds to the appearance of the squad. Coach Kingsmore has not given out any names as to who will be in the line or backfield against Delaware but with the material at hand he should be able to build a team that will bring home the bacon.

OLD FRIENDS ARE RE-UNITED

Kenton, Sept. 22 -A friendship having its inception during school days in Germany and continuing for forty-four years, was revived yesterday when August Huhn, Harry Huhn, Frederick Huhn, and sons, Harold and Robert, of Ft. Wayne, Ind., visited August Heil at his home north of the city.

Mr. Heil left Germany forty-four years ago to seek his fortune in America. Three years later the Huhn brothers followed. At that time the boyhood friends lost trace of one another and not until yesterday did he know they were living.

Establishment of one another's whereabouts resulted from correspondence between both families and friends residing in Germany.

The Huhns at first were informed that Mr. Heil made his home near Lima, and after visiting that city they found the Kenton man's address.

It was a happy reunion, for neither party knew but what the other was dead. Many hours were spent in recalling incidents of their boyhood days.

EXPOSITION IS DECLARED TO BE GREATEST EVER

Three-Day Speed Program Opened Today with 2:22 Trot and 2:23 Pace

Mt Gilead, Sept. 22—The 76th annual Morrow county fair, which opened yesterday, is unquestionably the biggest and best in the history of local fairs. Taken as a whole, the entries and exhibits greatly exceed those of any previous year. Never before has so much prize livestock been exhibited, and the numbers of speed horses entered in the various events greatly exceeds that of all former fairs.

The fair really begins today. Yesterday was devoted to placing exhibits and entries, the locating of concessions and putting the finishing touches on the grounds and buildings.

Today's program began at 9 o'clock with the judging of horses, roadster and light harness; standard bred and ponies. This was followed by the judging of cattle, sheep, swine and poultry.

$388.50 in Premiums

Winners were chosen in the farm produce department, in which a total of $388.50 in premiums was offered; in the culinary department, with $162 in awards; and in the painting, drawing and needlework department, when $467 in prizes was distributed.

The three-day speed program was scheduled to open this afternoon with the 2:22 trot, with a purse of $350. There were 15 entries in this event.

The 2.23 pace, which was originally planned with a $350 purse, was split on account of the large number of entries, the number reaching 32 yesterday. The purse was increased to $450 and the pace divided into two divisions with a purse of $225 for each. The mixed green race, county only, was called off because it was not filled.

Livestock judging will occupy Thursday forenoon and in the afternoon's speed program there are three events: the 2:25 trot, the 2:16 pace and the 2:20 stake trot with a $1,000 purse. Entries in this race have reached forty-four.

School Parade

The Morrow county school parade will be the feature of Friday morning's program. The newly organized Morrow county school band, directed by Prof. E. J. Fitchhorn, instructor in music in the Mt. Gilead schools, and assembled especially for the occasion, will lead the parade, which will be participated in by all schools in the county. A prize of $25 is offered for the school having the best turn-out.

Friday's races include a 2:20 pace, a 2:18 trot and a 2:18 stake pace with a purse of $1,000. There are 40 entries in this event. Among the new features introduced this year, will be the night fair, which has been secured at considerable cost, and the fair board believes will considerably add to the attractiveness of the fair in the evening.

More Concessions

The number of concessions this year is greater than ever and they are of a higher grade than formerly, a member of the board stated yesterday. The auto show is a special attraction, in which a large number of cars are shown and represented. Local and out-of-town dealers have provided the different designs of cars of the makes they sell.

"We are having unquestionably the greatest fair in the history of Morrow county", Secretary E. B. Wilson stated yesterday. "There is no doubt but that all we need is the weather, as the fair is right here."

A view of the crowded condition of the barns, the great number of concessions, the elaborate exhibits in the different departments, and the many speed entries, easily convinces one that the Morrow county fair this year will live up to its slogan, "The Biggest Little Fair in Ohio."

DOG WOUNDED BY STRANGE NEGRO

Upper Sandusky, Sept. 22 - A possible hold up was averted Tuesday morning at the Frank Hirby grocery in Crawford and as a result a bulldog is suffering from a bad bullet wound in the neck.

Mr. Hirby had just opened the store at about seven o'clock when a negro stepped onto the porch. The bulldog approached him and he stopped though assured that the animal was harmless. When asked to come on in he pulled a gun from his pocket and shot the dog, then turned and ran. Sheriff W. W. Sheidegger scoured the fields and woods in that vicinity but the man evidently waded Tymochtee creek and escaped. It is believed that he intended to hold up the store.

BARN DESTROYED BY FIRE NEAR KENTON

Machinery, Grain and Hay Included in List of Contents; Property Was Insured

Kenton, Sept. 22—Several thousand dollars loss was sustained by John Kemere, prominent farmer on the Miller pike east of here, late Tuesday afternoon, when a distastrous fire destroyed a large barn on his farm.

The large structure together with valuable farm machinery, one work horse, fifty bushels of wheat, oats and hay, were destroyed. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

A neighbor girl, Miss Maxine Ramge, first discovered the blaze when she inquired of her mother concerning smoke pouring from the roof of the Kemere barn. She immediately notified the members of the family and a general alarm was sounded.

Despite efforts of a volunteer bucket brigade the structure was entirely destroyed. The blaze had gained too great a headway when aid arrived. A large straw stack to the rear of the barn, however, was saved together with nearby outbuildings.

The house situated some distance from the barn was never threatened by the blaze.

ACTION TAKEN AFTER REPORT OF APPRAISERS

Long Drawn Out Civic Contention Brought to an End at Council Session

Bucyrus, Sept 22—The city council last night brought an end to a long drawn out civic contention by recommending the sale of bonds sufficient to effect the purchase of the property of the Bucyrus Development Co. local water utility at $600,000, the price set by company officials.

Attorney Paul Gallinger, representing the development company and Solicitor James Miller, representing the city, are today in Toledo taking care of all legal formalities which accompany the property transfer.

The action of the city council followed the report of representatives of the Clemenshaw Appraisal Co., Cleveland, retained by the city, that the property of the Bucyrus Development Co. was worth $637,000, $800,000 named as the present valuation of the property with $163,000 being discounted for likely deteriation within the next six months.

Frank Hopley and E. J Songer representing the Bucyrus Chamber of Commerce, a leader of the opposition faction to the sale during the contention, last night appeared before council and endorsed its action.

Auditor M. W. Haaser of the water company, stated in a report to council that revenue from the sale of water in Bucyrus was sufficient to maintain the plant, pay interest on the bonds and accrue profits sufficient to pay off indebtedness in 25 years, barring exceptional expenditures for unforeseen repairs.

The present owners of the Bucyrus Development Co. are Stanahan, Otis & Harris, New York City, having purchased the property three months ago from Smith Brothers, Bay City, Mich.

Involved in the deal is the agreement that the citizens of Bucyrus shall continue to receive city water service at the same price that of 33c for the first 300 cubic feet with a sliding scale downward for all amount over that.

Daily Bedtime Story

BY HOWARD GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and His Friends

...Wait a minute, Uncle Wiggily! ...Wait a minute!" called Nurse Jane ...Fuzzy Wuzzy as the rabbit gentleman ...was hopping away from his hollow ...one morning.

"...Oh, I'll wait," answered the ...bunny. "But please don't tell me I ...have forgotten to put on my pink, ...polka dot tie," he said as he laughed ...and put up one paw. However, his ...tie was there all right, just where it ...should be, between his bright eyes.

"I suppose you are going adventuring, ...have done with your ...and the muskrat lady house-...was a bit serious like, and ...inclined to fun.

"Yes, I am going adventuring," replied Mr. Longears. "May I have the pleasure of your company?" he asked politely, bowing with his tall silk hat.

"...I'm so busy I couldn't think of ...coming with you," answered the musk-...rat lady. "But while you are hunting ...for adventure I wish you would also look for some sweet flag."

"...Oh, yes—sweet flag," exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "It is now about the ...time of year to gather that. I suppose you want some to have in the bunga-...low during the winter, so if any of my ...fine friends have a pain you can ...cure with the sweet flag."

"...That's it," said Nurse Jane.

"...I'll look for some," promised the ...funny gentleman.

...off he hopped, down toward the ...brook, for there the sweet flag would ...grow, if anywhere, it being a plant that ...likes to be near water.

I suppose some of you, on reading the name of this story, thought I was ...going to tell about a waving red, white ...and blue flag with sugar on it. But I don't mean that kind of a sweet ...flag.

Sweet flag is the common name for a plant called calamus. It grows tall ...and green, like the "cat tails" in a ...swamp. But it is a bit different. For the white root of the long, green ...calamus stalks is good as medicine, and ...when dried, and baked with a coating ...of sugar, is very good to eat, if you ...don't take too much.

...With a coating of sugar, sweet ...flag ...tickles your tongue, and too ...much of it would make your mouth ...smart ...of taken mustard. So one must not take more than a nibble at a time.

Uncle Wiggily hopped along the path by the brook and soon he saw, waving in the breeze, some tall, green stalks.

"Ah, there is the sweet flag!" said the rabbit gentleman. But when he had pulled up some of the green stalks, and had looked at the white roots on the end, he saw he had nothing but "cat tails," which wasn't what he wanted.

"Try again!" said the bunny, and he hopped on a little farther until he found red sweet flag, or calamus, this time. So he took the white roots home to Nurse Jane, who said:

"I will put them out on top of the woodshed to dry in the sun. And when the roots are dried I'll cut them into little round slices like buttons, put them on a pan in the oven with sugar and we will soon have candied sweet flag to eat and for medicine."

"Very good," spoke Uncle Wiggily, but a little later it was not so good for he heard a voice out near the woodshed crying: "Ouch! Oh, dear! Oh, how my tongue burns! Ouchie, my lips! Oh, I'm all on fire inside!"

Running around back of his bungalow Uncle Wiggily saw the unpleasant old Bob Cat, with his silly little tail, running around trying to find water to drink.

"Ho there, Bob Cat! Did you take some of Nurse Jane's sweet flag off the roof?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Sweet flag, is it?" cried the bad chap. "I took some white thing off the woodshed roof, thinking they were good to eat. But, oh, how they burn my mouth! Let me get water quick! Sweet flag!!, Huh!! I call it biting flag!"

"It does bite if you take too much and have no sugar on it!" laughed Mr. Longears. "But you should not have taken what didn't belong to you, Mr. Bob Cat!" And the bad chap shouldn't, I think. I don't know how you feel about it, but that is what I think.

Anyhow, when the sweet flag was properly sugared it was good to eat and the little bunnies each had a tiny nibble. And if the jumping Jack doesn't try to play marbles with the rag doll's shoe button eyes, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the rolling egg.

STOCKS MOVE ALONG IN DULL, FEATURELESS MART

Leaders Unable To Retain Price Grains Following Short Covering

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks strong; industrial stocks steady; domestic bonds inactive; foreign bonds, slightly lower; call money, 5 1-2 per cent; grain irregular; copper steady; oil irregular; cotton steady; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron firm; foreign exchange steady.

New York, Sept. 22—Industrial stocks moved in a narrow price range in a dull and featureless market today. Short covering in the forenoon resulted in a firming up of the speculative leaders, with resultant price gains of a point or two, but in most cases, it was found impossible to retain these gains in the face of persistent selling from the professionals.

With the continuation of the 5½ per cent call renewal rate and the absence of buying interest from outside traders, the market narrowed down to a speculative tug of war between the opposing forces in the respective stocks. The bears found it comparatively easy to dislodge the high-priced industrials and specialties, the oil stocks, the cheap motor stocks, and, after the first hour or so the moving picture stocks.

Thus, with United States Steel declining abruptly from 147½ to 145, General Motors and Allied Chemical down a few points, prominent oil stocks breaking into new low ground for the movement, and only incidental moves in the rails, it was only logical that selling pressure from outside and inside sources should have increased.

BRITISH HEALTH FIGURES SHOW DEFECTS IN MEN

London, Sept. --Eighty-two per cent, of recruits for the British Army during 1924 were rejected as unfit, and only five per cent. of men examined for the English police force in the same period were found physically and mentally able to reach the standard required, according to statistics issued here.

The defects were attributed to malnutrition in childhood.

The statistics also show that one of every seven men of working age in England dies of tuberculosis, while one million children in the specified year were so mentally and physically deficient as to be unable to derive reasonable benefit from the education provided for them by the country.

Other statistics are that 61,715 babies died in one year before they reached the age of twelve months; 500,000 were suffering from malnutrition; and 3,000,000 from dental defects.

Fashions are now so varied that many high-class stores are obliged to keep in stock as many as fifty different varieties in women's glace kid shoes alone.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Artichokes were the newest vegetables found on the Marion produce markets, today. The price was 15 cents. The vegetable was found only in a few markets owing to the scarcity of the article.

First displays of cranberries appeared today. Prices found on the berries, which make their annual appearance at this time of year, was exceedingly low in comparison to prices of other berries on the local counters. Some dealers sold their supplies at 15 cents a quart while others made their quotations read two quarts for 25 cents.

Peaches Plentiful

A few of the fruit vendors were selling a good supply of peaches at $1.85 a bushel, dropping 15 cents from the general price asked on most of the markets yesterday. A good many dealers continued the price of $2 asked yesterday. Still others were selling at $2.25 a bushel.

Squashes and pumpkins were appearing on the markets in greater abundance and were taking their places among the leading and most popular sellers as the fall season is drawing near. Only smaller pumpkins have been announced and marked to sell at 10 and 15 cents each. The squashes came into the markets in many varieties.

The Hubbard variety sold at three cents a pound owing to the many different sizes appearing. Summer variety sold at 10 and 15 cents each

Erie Kent Division Makes Announcement of Selection of Six Additional Workmen

Two Engineers and Four Firemen Included in New Appointments; Applications Presented to H. E. Hoolden, Locomotive Operation Supervisoor

Six new appointments of men on the Erie Railroad, Kent Division, of which Marion is a part, were announced yesterday through bulletins posted in local yards and offices.

Two engineers and four firemen are included in the new appointments, according to announcement made by H. E. Hoiden, supervisor of locomotive operation of this division.

W. F. Wayne has the job of Creston lay-over local engineer and J. E. Hill is employed as Mansfield lay-over local engineer. H. E. Wells is fireman with Hill.

W. E. Feight and A. L. Kelly, both well-known among local Erie men, have charge of the firing on Passenger Trains 3, 4, 15, and 16 on the Erie. The passengers are through trains from Chicago to New York.

J. K. Mull has been appointed fireman of engine 4009, rounds service, first district.

Applications for these positions were presented to Mr. Holden a few days ago.

Erie Special

An Erie special, carrying 35 cars of tank steel from Sharon, Pa., booked for Beaumont, Tex., via Dayton, made the run through Marion yesterday.

Two Sections

Passenger train No. 36 on the Hocking Valley, southbound, carried two sections Monday night.

Add New Coaches

Fifteen more all-steel coaches have been purchased by the Erie Railroad Co., and were carried through Marion today on the trip to the eastern states.

Trains Nos. 3 and 4 on the Erie, operating through Marion, are now equipped with all-steel coaches of the latest design. Within a short time it is probable that Trains 15 and 16 will operate with this type of coaches.

Fewer Fatalities

With the exception of the persons killed at highway crossings, there was a reduction in the first five months of 1926 in fatal accidents to all classes of persons, it is pointed out by the Railway Age in its current issue, although there was an increase in the volume of traffic handled, the number of railway employes and the train service given.

Facts given in the issue of the Railway Age are based on a report of the Interstate Commerce Commission which has just been announced.

Off Duty

R. M. Swigart, dispatcher in the office of Chief Train Dispatcher J. R. Folsom of the Erie Railroad, Kent Division, is off duty this week taking a vacation.

In Columbus

Bert Brashares, cashier of the local Hocking Valley freight house, representative of the Marion Chapter of American Insurance Union, is in Columbus today in attendance at the National Congress of the A. I. U.

There is no genii of my dreams
That better heeds my wand—

At all times to respond!

Heartless Motorist Shoots Work Horse Along Highway

Incensed over the recent cold-blooded shooting of a work horse on the farm of Joseph Fox, Prospect-pk. by a motorist riding along the highway, countrymen in the vicinity of Newman's Bridge crossing have determined to avenge the death of the animal.

The shooting occurred Saturday night after dark but did not come to light until F. J. Nicholson, one of the enraged neighbors of Fox, brought the story of the heartless act to The Star office today.

The horse for which Fox recently paid $175 was found dead in a pasture a short distance from the farm early Sunday morning.

Not knowing at the time the exact cause of the horse's death owing to the dirt over the wound, a Marion veterinarian pronounced death due to acute indigestion. The horse in the last broes of death had rolled around in the pasture field and had covered the wound where the bullet entered the body.

It was not until a few days later when the body of the horse was taken to the Green Camp Fertilizer plant that the real cause of its death was learned. After removing the hide a bullet was found lodged over the animal's heart.

Mrs. Fox claims that she heard reports of three shots late Saturday night, as an automobile passed the house.
